

Democracy Dies in Darkness

Subscribe

Sign in

⌚ This article was published more than 6 years ago

RELIABLE SOURCE

Joe and Jill Biden sign with talent agency CAA

By Emily Heil

February 10, 2017 at 10:45 a.m. EST

Former vice president Joe Biden and his wife Jill Biden. (Brennan Linsley/AP)

Gift Article

Share

Looks like the former veep isn't planning a shuffleboard-and-crosswords kind of retirement. Joe Biden and his wife, Jill, have signed with the Creative Artists Agency to help "amplify" their post-White House agenda.

"Jill and I remain more dedicated than ever to addressing the critical issues of the day," Biden said in a statement released by CAA.

Advertisement

Their work is likely to focus in part on the “cancer moonshot” initiative to end cancer they launched after the death of their son, Beau, from brain cancer. The couple have also established the Biden Foundation. And Biden will lead two new academic centers at the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Delaware, they announced earlier this week.

Biden, who spent his entire career in elected office, has for years been one of the least-wealthy members of Washington’s elite political class, and friends have urged him to capitalize on his stature (and his pop-culture cachet — those aviators!) now that he’s a private citizen.

Which probably won’t be a problem. In the release, CAA President Richard Lovett predicted the Bidens “will build an unprecedented post-White House career.”

 Gift Article

By Emily Heil

Emily Heil is a reporter covering national food news and trends. Previously, she co-authored the Reliable Source column for The Post. Twitter

MORE FROM THE POST

After sexual harassment accusations from 3 women, Pa. lawmaker resigns

Today at 8:08 p.m. EST

Tucker Carlson mocked by Anderson Cooper, comedians over Jan. 6 coverage

Today at 10:37 a.m. EST

The fear and fury of these Florida parents

Today at 12:43 p.m. EST

Inside the simmering feud between Donald Trump and Fox News

Today at 6:32 p.m. EST

MOST READ LIFESTYLE >

1 The fear and fury of these Florida parents

2 Tucker Carlson mocked by Anderson Cooper, comedians over Jan. 6 coverage

3 Advice | Ex has ‘creepy’ interest in my life. Carolyn Hax readers give advice.

4 Advice | Carolyn Hax: Is a daughter sworn to silence on mother’s secret child?

5 Murdoch confided Trump was going ‘increasingly mad’ as Fox pushed false claims